LEGISLATORS OF PROVINCE MEET TUES.

EDMONTON, July 25.—Mentioning only the west board legislation session, the speech from the throne, with which Lieut.-Governor R. G. Brett opened the special session of the legislature at 3 p.m. Tuesday, was one of the briefest of these documents ever read to an Alberta house. The speech, however, made mention of "such other matters as may be submitted to you" leaving the field open for discussion of the Calgary-Rediff-Railroad fight battle.

The ceremony was the first of the briefest, the galleries being well filled with visitors, as they had been thrown open to the public. The speech from the throne, and the conclusion of the session, three new members were introduced and given seats. They were: William George Farquharson, R. H. Stone, Mike Chornob, Whitford.

In respect of the Wheat Board Bill, copies of which were distributed to the members of the house and members of the press, the bill was asked by the government during the afternoon session to introduce the Wheat Board Bill.

Speech From Throne
The text of the speech from the throne follows:

"Mr. Speaker and Members of the legislative assembly:
"I welcome you to the second session of the fifth legislative assembly. "My government is looking forward with much pleasure to entertaining your excellencies at the capital on their return to the province in September."

West Board Act
"Since the closing of the session in March last, the parliament of Canada has passed 'The Canadian Wheat Act, 1922.' One of the provisions of this act is that it shall come into operation as soon as two or more provinces have enacted such enabling legislation as the government-in-council may consider necessary to make the board's operation comprehensive and effective for the purpose intended."

Reason For Session
"In view of the grave economic conditions prevailing throughout the province, my government decided to call a meeting of the legislature to consider such concurrent legislation as the board's operation in position to co-operate with the Dominion."

minion and other provinces in establishing a similar board. "I now take leave of you, with the fullest assurance that you will give this matter and such others as may be submitted to you, your wise consideration, having in mind at all times the best interests of all the people of the province."

One Change in Bill
EDMONTON, July 25.—Copies of the Alberta bill containing additional powers on the Canada Wheat Board, a duplicate of the bill introduced in the Saskatchewan legislature, were distributed in the Alberta house, which met in special session at 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. The only change in the bill from the original text of the measure in the Saskatchewan house occurs in section 8.

Discretion Conferred
By this change absolute discretion is conferred on the provincial cabinet of guaranteeing or declining to guarantee advances made by the Wheat Board through chartered banks for the purpose of purchasing wheat. A similar change is being made in the Saskatchewan bill.

Original Section
The original section read: "For wheat grown in Alberta by the board may make payment, by way of advance, to the Wheat Board Bill, to a chartered bank or to chartered banks to pay under such conditions and on such terms as may be determined by the board may by regulation provide, and the lieutenant-governor-in-council may from time to time."

"If He Deem Advisable"
By the change, the words, "if he deem it advisable" are incorporated after "lieutenant-governor-in-council." In other words, whether the province shall accept financial responsibility for the operation of the Wheat Board is left entirely to the discretion of the cabinet. This arrangement was decided upon between Premier Greenfield and Premier Dunning in lieu of the placing of the word "discretion" in the bill making it come into force by proclamation.

May Wait and See
By holding this control over the financial straits, the provincial cabinets will be in a position to wait and see just what the Wheat Board is going to be and also the kind of rules under which it proposes to operate before proceeding to commit the credit of the province by guaranteeing advances for the Wheat Board for the purchase of grain.

Successful Summer Shows
Well Prepared Exhibits Attractively Displayed Demand Recognition
During the coming month crops of agricultural fairs will be held. What is the purpose of the fair is not more for sport and entertainment; but rather it is a medium for cheap, good advertising of one's seed grain, live stock and other produce. At the same time it is a medium for the farmer to get greater progress in agricultural pursuits, and provide an opportunity to invest in better seed and improved livestock.

The show is here to stay, and we should aim to put it back on a permanent basis. During the years when labor was high priced and feed scarce, we acquired a bad tendency to exhibit our produce and live stock without proper preparation. It is a mistake to suppose that it was fair to the exhibitor, the exhibitors, or the Fair Association. Consequently, the general tone of the show has depreciated, and often government support has been withdrawn.

AN EXCELLENT AGRICULTURAL EXPOSITION A CATAL OF SPORTS AND AMUSEMENTS HEAR THE RADIO CONCERT ON SECOND DAY

The arrow points to Macleod Fair with days of interest to farmers and sports. The agricultural department will be one of the items of interest, with the splendid rains, excellent weather, live stock, crops and garden produce will be ready for the judges, and exhibitors eager for results.

There was much to keep the rabbit's tail short these past years, between drought, cut-worms and grasshoppers. Nevertheless the farmers see through the maze of difficulties, and right heartily intend to make Macleod Fair a real genuine county exposition.

The spirit of the society is high, let any of all enter it with its vim and heartiness possible, by making substantial entries. General support to the keen sports program will go far to make the two days of the greatest interest to visitors and exhibitors alike.

The magnificent handwork exhibit on the Exhibition Hall makes the hall the centre of interest to the visitors to the fair. The needwork by the ladies of the community is all of a very high order and sometimes the judges find great difficulty in placing the awards. The coolery tables are always great attractions, and this year will, it is expected, surpass any former display. Bread, cakes, canned fruits, vegetables and pickles, most appeal to those who are not judges, and who would like to be, as the array and variety which does justice and answers the purpose of the fair.

The poultry display is expected to be very large this year. The demand for the display of poultry is great, and fanciers has been very encouraging, and the exhibits will be principally from the local towns and districts. Car lots of exhibits of any kind are not encouraged by the Macleod Fair Board. There will be a large entry and very keen competition in Rhode Island Reds, White Wyandottes, Barred Rocks, Leghorns and Minorcas. The directors have been fortunate in the services of Mr. J. H. Westbrook, Lethbridge as the judge, who is reputed as one of the first class judges of the province.

Don't forget to meet your friends at the Grand Stand, where the big bands wholly or partially. This year some disinterested person will be on the grounds to score the event as to the nature and quality of exhibits, the attendance, the interest shown, the co-operation manifest between the Association and the District. It is just possible that the Department of Agriculture will base its support on the nature of this report.

It is very gratifying to the executive that the fair be one of the best, but it should be of much greater moment to the community as a whole that he show be indicative of its prosperity and progressiveness.

ball tournament will be staged, the best record for Southern Alberta. The baseball fans will see class sport from crack players and teams. U.S.A. has New York, St. Louis, Boston and others; we will have the best south of Calgary: Rivarly, Lethbridge, Barons, Chesholm, Champion, Valon Macleod. Fans of their own teams: Slim Haynes, pitcher of the Rivarly team, an exponent of the game; Willie, pitcher of the Rivarly team; Big Lester of Champion, hard to beat; Kid Fender, has been an equal? (one of Macleod's High School boys) will hurl for Barons; also old Bob Sture will show his old form again on the diamond.

The Macleod team will be well represented, not a whit behind the rest of the crack teams. Joe Marks, the seven-year manager, showed to match strong and weak points, will place before the fans a team which will do credit to Macleod. Bill Mulholland, of no-hit fame, by the way, will be among the picked players of the entered club—wait a home run from any of his balls—come and see even if you have a cold in the throat. Well, of course it would not be a game or tournament if Spud Murphy was not in the line-up. Those who have not seen him on our fine diamond, with his keen mind and eye Spud will produce his goods.

A Grand Radio Concert will be given on the Grand Stand at 2 p.m. on Friday the second day of the Fair, broadcasted by the Calgary Alberta, organized and operated locally by Mr. Joe Davis, one of Macleod's well known boys.

The Race Program is not quite so long this year, but what there is will be fast, snappy and exciting, as it is expected there will be some fast stopping horses on the track. The infield will be there with their fine horses, and will compete in some of the races with the white man—their horses are sure goods. Then there will be the bucking contests, with some of the wild horses from the hills there will sure be some exciting moments for the spectators on the Grand Stand. Therefore let everyone be there to catch the world along: "Meet me at the Grand Stand at the Macleod Fair."

The grand finale of the first day will be the high class Dramatic Entertainment in the Empire Theatre by the Macleod Fallies (High School Girls) when they will present an entirely new A. T. Real Estate Company. Dances and plays which will keep the audience on the qui vive from start to finish. Those who have not seen these girls will do well not to miss hearing them, as they are certainly a treat. Then following the entertainment will be the Grand Ball in the G.W.N.A. Hall.

The Midway will also be there in all its colors and shine. The International Band of Europe and How They can be seen on the road today. There will be fun for everybody, old and young, so forget every care and trouble for two days and come to Macleod's biggest and best fair held in the oldest town in Southern Alberta.

Chautauqua is a public educator through a pleasing medium---if you do not attend the Chautauqua you are negligent of your duty to your family and yourself---this is realized by the best people of all communities, and to willingly fail to take advantage of this great yearly educational and entertainment feature is obviously suggestive of one's being of that class whose members are careless of the higher ideals of life and of the benefits accruing thereby to the individual and the community

Coming Picture Deals With Strange Ways of Women

Secured apparently by his wife, and fearing that her coldness was due to his sinister personality and facial disfigurement, a husband astorically killed himself. His clothes and papers identified a body that was washed ashore by ocean waves.

The wife was grief-stricken. She discovered this man had meant more to her than anything else. A year later she was being strenuously courted by a man strangely familiar and yet a handsome, likeable young man, with all the finer points of culture and refinement that her iron-willed husband had lacked.

Upon this weird theme John Fleming Wilson and Mary Ashe Miller wrote a story, the last great screen plot worked on before his death. It will be seen on Friday and Saturday at the Empress Theatre as a Universal film play, "The Man Who Married His Own Wife," starring Frank Mayo, Stuart Patton directed. He is the man who guided the filming of Priscilla Dean's Universal-Jewelers "Conflict." He was also the author of one of Mayo's best pictures, "The Jim." Sylvia Bremer, Francis MacDon-

MAN HIS OWN RIVAL

Changed by Years, Worn Out Widow—Finds Her Loyal to His Memory

Imagine a man, supposed to have committed suicide, who comes back so changed his wife doesn't know him, who has reasons for concealing his real identity from her, and who, upon making love to her, finds his wooing balked by her loyalty to his own memory. That is the strange situation presented in the Universal picture at the Empress Theatre Friday and Saturday. It is called "The Man Who Married His Own Wife," and stars Frank Mayo.

There are no statistics to prove what percentage of men, given the chance to cut loose and begin their lives all over again, would go back and marry the same women. John Fleming Wilson and Mary Ashe Miller, who wrote "The Man Who Married His Own Wife," for Universal and the Compositon Magazine, hit upon one of the most novel marital situations ever imagined.

John Morton, the role played by Mayo, wins a wife by heroin and then finds they are on different social planes and that he has lost his wife's love. He does what many men would like to do. He "fakes" a suicide and disappears, leaving his "widow" his big shipping business.

It is his intention to start life all over again. But he cannot forget his wife. How he finally makes a new man out of himself and wins back her love is shown in interesting sequences.

Remarkable sea and ship-wreck scenes, and some novel situations brought about by the attempt of a man to cut loose from his family and other ties and begin life all over again, are included in "The Man Who Married His Own Wife," the Universal picture at the Empress Theatre Friday and Saturday. It is the story of a man who disappears but cannot forget. He finally comes back and wins his wife a second time. Frank Mayo is the star.

"MORALS OF MARCUS" PROVIDES HAREM FILM PLOT

Those pessimistic people who bewail the "cheapness" of motion pictures should all see "Morals," next Monday and Tuesday at the Empress Theatre, with May McAvoy in the stellar role.

For "Morals" is none other than a screen version of that delightfully whimsical novel by William J. Locke, "The Morals of Marcus Orelney." So here is the best of modern British literature brought to the screen without injury in the transition; by those two finished artists in their respective fields, John Crawford Leves, scenarist, and William Desmond Taylor, director.

Those who admired the remarkable human appeal of May McAvoy in "Sentimental Journey" will have additional cause to commend that quality after seeing "Morals." She makes the little Anglo-Turkish harem girl a real person, a maid whose developing character provides new pleasures as the picture proceeds on its way.

William P. Carleton is an excellent choice for Sir Marcus Orelney. The same dignified appearance and underlying emotional ability that make successful his work in "Inside the Cup" find him in good stead for the scene where his staid English household is thoroughly upset by the persistent, unceremonious, and surprising Carlotia.

Kathryn Williams is splendid as usual in the important role of Julia Mainwaring. Other players completing a really fine cast include William E. Lawrence, Bridgeta Clark, Sydney Bruce, Starke Patterson, Nicholas de Rois and Martin Shiner.

Another number on the program is a Century two-reel comedy starring Harry Street in "A One Horse Town."

HAREM MANNERS SHOCK LONDON SOCIETY

May McAvoy, popular Reelstar star, will be seen as Carlotia, one of Wm. J. Locke's most delightful heroines, when her latest picture, "Morals" opens a two day run here next Monday at the Empress Theatre.

Reared in a Turkish harem, where every girl's almost as much as a slave and prepared for her by very child, is marriage, Carlotia is suddenly transported, when she is about seventeen, into London society, the ward of a most conventional, highly connected, and impeccable British bachelor.

Here, the girl's childish eagerness to know what kind of a husband her guardian means to give her so distresses her almost as much as the artlessly rude questions about the age and other intimate details of the lives of his women friends she is about to face.

All in all, the naive Carlotia gives Rex Beach a very troubled time of it before he discovers that he loves the delicious little nuisance.

REX BEACH TELLS OF THE MENACE OF THE NORTH

When Rex Beach was prospecting for gold in the Klondike quite a few years ago, he returned without much as a grain of the precious dust, but he found something infinitely more to be treasured. He struck a mine of literature which has yielded often since for a couple of exciting, rich trove of stories, books and photo plays.

One of the greatest motion pictures that ever came from Rex Beach's pen is "The North Wind's Malice," a story set in the frozen north of Alaska in the romantic days of the gold rush.

The theme of "The North Wind's Malice" is distinctly unusual. Rex Beach tells of the dread winter of upper Alaska, where the natives of the country like an avenging spirit, shrouding the land in its freezing pall. The famous cold chills men who sleep up tight in their cabins and grinds into their minds a terrible despair, here for one night only, Wednesday.

Don't miss this picture, it will show here for one night only, Wednesday.

REX BEACH'S CRASHING DRAMA "THE NORTH WIND'S MALICE"

"The North Wind's Malice" with an all-star cast hits the Empress next Wednesday only.

An inspiring story of Alaska during the gold rush, produced under the personal supervision of Rex Beach, and played by a cast of well known actors, "The North Wind's Malice," Rex Beach has contributed to the screen.

HOW DIAMOND MINES GUARD AGAINST THEFT

One gathers from an article in the Philadelphia Public Ledger, by E. Var Lier, that a certain provision of the Ontario Temperance Act, which has been criticized, has its own counterpart in the laws of South Africa. There the possession of an uncut diamond is taken as evidence that the diamond has been stolen, and the person found with it may be sent to prison on no further evidence. In order to prevent the theft of diamonds this law was passed at the instance of the mine owners. If one were walking over the fields and picked up a diamond, as might easily happen, it would not be a difficult matter to conceal it, if the penalty for doing so were lenient. But, as matters stand, one runs a grave risk of spending several years in one of the hottest jails in the world if he should yield to the temptation.

Most Report Discovery
The person who picked up the stone would not be permitted to plead that he did not know the diamond was the property of anybody in particular, even should he find it far from civilization and on land that had not yet been settled. The law is clear. One's first duty when he finds a diamond is to report the fact to the nearest magistrate or police station, giving a detailed account of the circumstances. If it proves that a diamond mine has been accidentally discovered, the stone belongs to the man who owns the land. If the find has not yet been settled, the stone belongs to the government. Of course, in unoccupied territory the finder would naturally make application for the land without divulging the fact that he had discovered a diamond mine. However, it is unlikely that he would pick up a diamond on any property in South Africa not controlled by the De Beers Syndicate.

THE L. D. B.'s

Because of the great value and the compass of diamonds, the L. D. B.'s by which they are mined, it would appear an easy thing for one to steal a diamond. There was a time when it was a great deal easier than it is now. The L. D. B. was the "L. D. B. Act" regulating illicit diamond mining was put on the statute book, and since the L. D. B. has been in force, it has been understood in most parts of the world. There are more than a few millionaires to-day, both in England and South Africa, who are said to have made their money by receiving stolen stones from the mines by natives. Some years ago a famous race horse owner in England, who had made his fortune in South Africa, was once less successfully blackmailed on the ground that he had been an L. D. B. The profits of these men were fabulous, since the thieves from whom they bought the diamonds were natives with little idea of the value of money. A stone worth thousands of pounds was often offered for a couple of dollars.

The Native Workers

Illicit diamond buyers, or fences, invaded the diamond fields originally by poachers of all kinds of fables which delighted the taste of the British natives, who worked the mines. They would first establish illicit relations as a cover, and then could be legitimately sold. Later, they would make the suggestion concerning the stolen stones, and they would be found every day, but to get clear of the compound was not so easy. This was made a little difficult because, when a native goes to work in the mines, he is practically a prisoner for six months, and it has no more to do with the world outside the stone fields.

Thieves' Tricks

It is no closely watched as a convict undergoing life imprisonment, and practically his only chance is to carry "him" the stolen diamonds when he leaves. Before he is permitted to leave he is searched to the skin. Even the possibility of the stones being swallowed and carried away in the stomach of the native is adequately guarded against. So the thief has to devise a more facile, if painful, way in which to carry their loot to the outside, where the L. D. B. would be waiting for them. Some of them have been known to make incisions in their arms and then conceal the stones until the skin grew over them. One thief was caught with a diamond in his leg, and the kind-hearted physician insisted upon examining his foot. It was foolish, but he was probed the sore, his lancet struck something hard, which proved to be a diamond. Another native carried a stolen pigeon with good results, until it was found that a diamond had been attached to its leg. With all these precautions, millions of dollars worth of stones have been stolen, and continue to be stolen; but the value of all the stolen diamonds would be small in comparison with that of the enormous quantities stored away in the vaults of the great mines, which are not put on the market because they would break prices.

TREE PLANTING IS BOOMING ON PRAIRIES

Excellent proof that the prairie pioneer resident has not lost his head through temporary business depression is provided by a statement of the Canadian Forestry Association that the popular interest in tree planting throughout the prairie provinces this year represents the high water mark in the history of the West. That the Canadian Forestry Association is in a good position to judge is indicated by the success attending their Tree Planting Lecture Car in this year's journey across the prairie provinces. Although the Lecture Car will hold only about 100 persons at a time, it has already accommodated since April 1st, and mostly in very small communities, over 40,000 people. It has travelled in the same period close to 4,500 miles with 300 lectures to the credit of Mr. Archibald Mitchell, the chief officer in charge, and his assistant, Mr. Angus Cochrane. For some time the tree planting car was attached to the Better Farming Train of the Saskatchewan Government which touched at 2 communities daily. Mr. Mitchell gives as many as 51 tree planting talks in a single week as well as practical demonstrations at advanced stages, showing how to plant trees, how to protect them from insects, and how to protect them from insect and fungus diseases. adian Forestry Association's unique enterprise, which aims to give prairie residents each year, and to stimulate popular interest in the planting of shelter belts about farms and the improvement of farm conditions, has no connection with any government or commercial interest but is a citizens' undertaking entirely. The financial support comes from small government grants and from the occasional subscriptions of business firms and private individuals, who realize the meaning of tree planting to the future life and prosperity of the prairie provinces.

Cattle Embargo Principle Is Not Upheld

LONDON, July 25.—The house of commons, after having rejected an amendment to the motion removing the embargo on the importation of Canadian store cattle agreed to the original motion without division. Canadian cattle up to the present have only been admitted into the country to be slaughtered at the port of entry. The Cabinet and the political parties were so divided on the question of removing the embargo that the government permitted the house to have a free vote on the question. The vote rejecting the amendment was 247 to 171.

TORONTO, July 25.—Publication of the news story that the British house of commons by a big majority has carried the resolution supporting the withdrawal of the embargo against Canadian cattle importations is apt to be construed as tantamount to the actual lifting of the embargo. That seems to be a mistake. The resolution was merely an expression of opinion invited by the government but not even necessarily binding the government to definite action. Undoubtedly, however, a bill carrying into effect the expressed opinion of the house will be brought down and may be expected to pass in its various stages through the commons without difficulty, though an equally peaceful passage through the lords is not so certain.

Banking Enquiry

A meeting of this commission was called for Friday, July 21st, at 2:30 p.m., at the Court House, Macleod. Prof. McGibbon, who has been appointed by the provincial government to make this enquiry was in attendance. There were a number of witnesses called, among whom were W. H. Shield, W. A. Day, R. Cunningham, Joseph Horner, H. Bandy, J. W. Moreash and a gentleman from Pincher Creek and the three local bank managers.

The substance of the evidence was that in some cases credit had been refused, and in some cases farmers were not able to secure credit at the time it was needed. Renewals had been too frequent and interest compounded upon short terms. The bankers, on their part, claimed that credit had been given in all deserving cases. This ended the enquiry at this point.

FRUIT AND VEGETABLES

The July fruit and vegetable report of the Fruit Branch of the Dominion Department of Agriculture is full of matter of importance to growers and shippers. Apples on the whole promise exceedingly well in Ontario, although Spy, Baldwin and Greening promise to be light. In the other apple-growing provinces a crop 25 per cent lighter than last year is indicated. Peaches and plums promise well in Ontario; so, too, do cherries and currants, while grapes and raspberries are likely to prove a fairly good crop, but pears appear to be below the average.

A larger acreage than usual has been sown to onions and one per cent less to potatoes. The Prairie Provinces, British Columbia, and the Maritime Provinces all show a rather larger increase in the acreage devoted to potatoes and Quebec shows an increase of 6 per cent over last year. In British Columbia, peaches, plums and prunes promise to be better than the average, apricots, raspberries and currants about an average, cherries fair and loganberries light. An increase of the acreage devoted to onions is reported.

Taking Canada as a whole 703,600 acres are covered by potatoes this year compared with 701,012 acres last year, being an increase of 1,688 acres. Returning to apples the total production last year in the five apple-growing provinces was 4,046,813 barrels against 4,362,540 in 1920. The care that is required in packing and shipping fruit to avoid damage is emphasized, and the special arrangements that have been made by the branch for transportation by lots are set forth, with particular reference to the distribution of British Columbia fruit in the Prairie Provinces. Attention is directed to the Provision of the recently passed Act regulating the Sale and Inspection of Root Vegetables, as they affect potatoes and onions.

A certain section of Arkansas reports that it has been dry so long that they have fished five years old that never learned how to swim.

Presiding officer (at suffrage meeting)—"Is there any woman here who wants to ask a question?"
Woman in back—"How do you get that smooth effect over your hips?"

Diner—"This coffee looks muddy!"
Waiter—"It was ground this morning."

Magician (producing eggs from hat)—"Boy, I'll bet your mother can't get eggs without him."
Boy—"Sure she can, she keeps ducks."

Fussy Old Lady—"Can you give me two good seats in the coolest part of the house?"
Ticket seller—"Sure, here are two in the 2 row."

Cross-eyed woman (to hump-backed husband)—"Now, then, let me see you walk straight home."

Waterton Items

Grasshoppers in District No. 2 are almost a thing of the past, thanks to the very efficient manner in which they have been handled by Councillor Moloney and his troupe of inspectors, and to the splendid co-operation of the farmers and land holders.

The Stand Off ball team have been disappointed twice through the failure of Joe's team to turn up. Maybe they will make the raise yet. Here's hoping they will. The fans are getting discouraged.

The crops in this district have not looked so well for many years. Field crops are showing a vigorous growth and some big yields are expected.

Much hay has rotted in the fields owing to the late rains, but the most of it is yet to cut, and even the heaviest losses concede that the rains did more good than harm.

Many Waterton people will be leaving for the Waterton Lakes this week to spend a few well earned holidays.

A BEAUTIFUL GARDEN

A representative of The Times finding himself in the vicinity of E. F. Brown's cozy little home on 19th street, one evening last week, called in and inspected that gentleman's much-talked of flower and vegetable garden, and was greatly impressed with what he saw. The many glowing remarks made by the citizens concerning the property have not been overdone. A row of Manitoba maple trees of large size almost completely hid these grounds from the curious gaze of the passers by and furnish delightful shade during the hottest part of the day. A beautifully kept lawn occupies the greater part of the east side, a space being reserved for flowers, of which there are a number of varieties in evidence. A bed of pansies, a blaze of color, each flower being considerably larger than a silver dollar, and much more handsome, being the more noticeable. Climbing plants such as the Virginia creeper, wild clematis and the hop are with difficulty kept within bounds, but the most valued flower in the garden, judging from Mr. and Mrs. Brown's remarks, is a rose, in full blossom. The roses, a deep red in color, are of great size, perfect in shape and just now are seen at their best. We doubt if a more perfect specimen could be found in all the western country. The kitchen garden is small, but it is surprising how much garden truck is being grown therein, there being the ordinary bean, the broad bean, peas, squash, etc., all having a most healthy appearance. This property when it came into the present owner's possession, was a gravel pit, soil having to be hauled from quite a distance. Mr. Brown has demonstrated what can be accomplished by any one having a desire to beautify and make home the attractive place to live in it should be, and at the same time improve the street upon which one's property is located.

NIGHT ON THE HUMBER

It was the night, and Humber's placid stream
Shone bright, reflecting many a wan moonbeam;
While youth and beauty on its starry breast
Delighted in those hours of peace and rest;
Those hours so fraught with all that love may give,
When it is joy and blessing here to live
And heaven and earth combine to make it sweet;
A paradise wherein true lovers meet,
Where true hearts beat as one, and eyes to eyes
Speak language all their own, right love-wise.
A night that naught did mar its loveliness,
Breathing immortal love and holiness:
A night that one could wish would never cease
Till earth is lost in heaven's eternal peace.
—Frank H. Holmes

MOONLIGHT ON LAKE ONTARIO

The moonlight and the lake is still,
In splendor sleeping, so tranquil
That scarce a ripple can be seen
Where softly falls the silver sheen.
The waves have surely gone to rest
On old Ontario's mighty breast;
While o'er the water, wide and deep,
Fair lens doth her vigil keep.
High overhead, a marbled sky,
Reveals a silent majesty
Reflected in the mirror vast,
Where swarthy tines their shadows cast.
Till earth and heaven mingle there,
To smile upon the waters fair,
The placid lake's rare loveliness.
So still it is that scarce a sound
Disturbs the scene, where man is bound
To gaze entranced, and feel how small
His presence is amid it all—
And the wonder and the charm,
Which he can neither change nor harm;
But hark! trace in every line,
The glory of the touch Divine.

Lake of a million memories
Of ancient years, and ancient days,
Of rule, untoured, ravage, life,
Of loves and hates, of peace and strife;
Of long untroubled hours of bliss,
Of many moonlight nights like this,
When such as I, beneath the spell,
And soul-enchanting glamour, fell.
—Mrs. Hunter

Red Cross Notes

With a striking front-page illustration of the world as a modern business man being introduced by his doctor to a spectral figure of Death lurking behind the bars of a T. B. sign, the National Tuberculosis Association of New York presents its latest pamphlet, entitled, "Becoming Acquainted with the enemy T. B."

The subject matter is well written, covering the questions: How to get cured. How to keep well. How to get T. B. Where the germs come from, and concluding with the comforting assurance that if taken in time T. B. cases can be cured.

The most important rules are easy enough. Abundance of nourishing food of good variety, meat and vegetables, fruit and cereals, milk and water. At least eight hours sleep every day with windows wide open. Daily exercises such as walking. Leisure for play and recreation. Absolute cleanliness of body, at least two baths per week. A yearly physical overhauling by a doctor, and a visit every six months to the dentist. The danger signals which put us on our guard when the germs first attack us are loss of weight, loss of appetite, cough or cold continued tired feeling, night sweats. The only known cures for T. B. are rest, fresh air, good food, good habits and a cheerful disposition. Consumptives should avoid all use of sneezes, or cough anywhere except in a handkerchief that can be boiled. Carelessness in this causes millions of terms to be scattered everywhere for those whose bodies may be in poor physical condition is infectious. This valuable pamphlet may be obtained free from the Provincial office.

Mrs. C. B. Wagner has returned from visiting the Red Cross Hospital at Altario and Consort, and reports conditions most satisfactory at both points. Considerable improvements have been made at Altario by the installation of a new heating plant, etc. The local Junior Red Cross has taken special interest in the hospital as they have been able through their concert to finance an operation performed on a little girl by which she can now hear and speak.

This spring four had accidents occurred in connection with horse-drawn, but in each case the prompt services of the local operating room prevented loss of life.

Consort Hospital registers 1300 hospital days since the beginning of the year. The Ladies' Auxiliary, under Mrs. Williams, is doing fine work. Both at Consort and Altario special efforts will be made to organize the Junior Red Cross in all the schools in their respective districts. Both hospitals are filled at present, and have been at capacity all the year, the majority being maternity cases.

A New York man had his wife up for abuse and charged that she finished proceedings by throwing a dictionary at him. Just like one of the fair sex to end an incident like that with a volume of words.

A recent bridegroom rejoiced in the name of "Precious." Lucky beggar. He'll still be that no matter what he does.

THE ORPHAN'S STORY

Full oft I've seen thee, mother dear,
Kneel down and humbly pray
To Him that rules the universe,
Dad's downward course to stay.

In fancy I now hear your sighs
And sob of sad despair,
When gazing through the bar-room door
At daddy lying there.

Your head was bowed in anguish,
"Old tears and want and strife,
Yet loving, true and kind were you,
'Tho' slurred—"a drunkard's wife."

Eighteen years have now gone by
Since you and pa were wed,
But now, alas! close side by side
You're lying with the dead.

Away! Away! accursed bowl,
That caused my father's fall,
And changed my sweet young mother's life,
From happiness to gall.

—Sam Sullivan.

Here and There

In the Edmonton district grain and hay crops everywhere are suffering for want of moisture. The natural growth of grasses in the north this year which hitherto have never been known to fail, is standing short, owing to the extreme heat and dryness of the past few weeks. East of Edmonton a little rain has fallen, but came too late to be of any real benefit.

The provincial legislature met in special session to consider authorizing the establishment of an inter-provincial wheat board. Premier Greenfield says he does not anticipate a lengthy session.

The mail service between Waterton Lakes and outside points is declared to be inadequate, there being but two mails per week at the present time. An agitation is on foot to have matters in this respect improved.

Colonels Ralston, McKeown and Dubuc have been appointed a royal commission to investigate charges levelled against the pension board by the Great War Veterans' Association. H. D. Dewar has been appointed secretary to the commission.

The last of the 1921 wheat is moving eastward over the line of the C.P.R. There has been an average weekly movement of over 100 cars of wheat during the past month.

Mixing stations for turning out poisoned baits for the hoppers are in many instances working double time. When this rule is being followed the hoppers are well under control and no damage is noticeable to crops. Where people have been more dilatory in this regard hoppers are still a menace and may yet do considerable damage to the standing grain.

Eastern Canada has lost 600,000 acres of wood lands through careless campers leaving their camp fires burning. It is estimated that it will take from 50 to 100 years to make good the damages. Camp fires should be thoroughly extinguished before

A great many of the crops in the Kootenai district are looking splendidly, the grain being of good height and well headed out. It is thought the yield in some instances will be as much as a forty bushels to the acre.

The lowest estimated yield being placed at about twenty-eight bushels.

Contract, Smith & Co., who are the contractors for the Lethbridge Northern and who have been operating a large drag-line between Waterton and the west and Larsen's contracting on the east, completed that portion of the contract on Monday last, the 17th July, and having no further use for the drag-line have shipped it to Station, Washington, where it will be prepared in readiness to be connected on railroad work for the Great Northern. This work has been under the supervision of the general manager, Fred Clarke, who is a civil engineer, who has been in charge of the Smith Co. for several years.

Mrs. Isabella Hartie has now returned to her home near Red Deer, after spending most of her holidays at Waterton Lakes with the McCreas and Mr. Clendenen. Climbing mountain peaks was her specialty while at the park. If you don't believe this just ask Foster.

MISSING COUPLE AT WATERTON LAKES, TURN UP SAFELY

FINCHER CREEK, July 24.—Word has just been received from Corp. Ford that five minutes before he and Const. Staley and the dogs reached Waterton Lakes, the missing lady and gentleman, Mrs. Adm. and Mr. Martin, Calgary, who had been lost in the mountains, had returned to camp. Friends had feared an accident, but the trouble was that the climbers had lost their way and climbed down the wrong side of the mountain. They walked a stream, thinking their path lay on the other side, and then it became dark and all they could do was to wander under until daylight. No danger menaced them other than being lost, wet, tired and hungry. So when camp was reached all they needed was food and sleep. They are pleased to be able to report the safe return of Mrs. Adm. and Mr. Martin. This will probably be a lesson to other climbers.

The owner of a Model 81 Overland (name on request) tells us he recently made a 900 mile trip using only 2 quarts of Imperial Polarine Oil Heavy (as recommended by the Imperial Chart).

Big oil and gasoline mileage is just one of the many advantages of using the proper grade of Imperial Polarine Motor Oils in any car or truck. Consult the Chart.
